Georgia Housing FAQ

What are my options?

As a unique effort to support Georgia educators' attendance at NECC 2007, ISTE has arranged for a limited number of low-cost rooms in Georgia Tech's Olympic Housing Complex. Accommodations are spartan, yet clean, safe, and very affordable. Standard hotel amenities like room service, 24-hour check-in, and daily maid service are not available.

Accommodations will be available in 4-night-minimum packages from June 22–27, 2007. A limited number of 3-night packages will also be available.

There are two kinds of housing available through this special program.

- Quad apartment-style living: with a kitchen/appliances, common area, two full bathrooms, and four lockable, single twin sleeping rooms. Basic furnishings are included, like a dining table, chairs, a sofa, side tables, bed, etc. Kitchen resources are NOT included.
- Suites: two double-occupancy bedrooms with adjoining semi-private bathroom facilities. Suites do not include common living areas or a kitchen.

Amenities for each room type will be available online December 1, 2006, along with recommended supplies that each guest should bring.

Who is eligible?

Any educator living and/or teaching in GA is eligible for this housing, on a space-available basis. The service will be available for reservations until February 16, 2007 or until the room inventory is exhausted (whichever is first).

How much does it cost?

The cost per bed, including linens/towels, is $69/night/person. There are rooms available for a 3-night stay and rooms available for a 4-night stay. No shorter stays can be accommodated through this program. A lost-key charge of $50 will be passed along to any reservation holder not returning her/his key upon check-out. Full payment must be received by ISTE prior to check-in; Georgia Tech is not handling reservations directly.

What about parking?

Secured, covered parking is available for an additional $7.50/day. Parking reservations will be made online with housing reservation.

How do we get to the GWCC?

ISTE will be providing daily motorcoach shuttle service to and from the convention center. The exact schedule is still to be determined, but will include several morning and afternoon runs. The distance between the GA Tech housing complex and the GWCC is less than 2 miles each way. MARTA service is also available.

How do we sign up?

A specific Web site will be established and made accessible through your ETTC Web sites, the NECC 2007 Web site (housing area). A credit card number will be required to guarantee the reservation. POs and checks will be accepted for payment but will not be used for guarantees. The site will have an information page available by December 1, 2006, with online reservations available shortly thereafter.

I want to stay with other people I know...how do I do that?

For the quad-style housing, if you want to stay with other people you know, the best way is for one person to reserve the quad, listing the other three as "share with" reservations. Those requesting quad style housing but not specifying share-withs will be placed on a space-available basis.

For the suites, you may indicate a preferred adjoining partner. If no preference is given, you will be placed on a space-available basis.

What else do I need to know?

When you sign up for this housing program online, your e-mail address will be captured and any relevant notifications and correspondence will be sent to you electronically. This will include specific check-in/check-out times, maps of how to get to the housing complex, parking structure identification, and more. Note that the Georgia Tech conference services department will not necessarily have information available about this program. The ISTE/NECC 2007 registration office is your best resource for questions and information: 1.800.280.6218 or neccreg@iste.org.
